

In most studies, the dataset was used in its entirety for training/modeling, validation and evaluation for specific task, which can be seen in table 3. In only three exceptions, the dataset was used only for subtasks (e.g. only evaluation) or component models. For example, in case of the study of \textcite{kusmakar2020machine}, the dataset was only applied to evaluate the developed model rather than the full modeling process. In these studies, external datasets have done most of the work. All results about the additional datasets are provided in the next section. kannst du die sätze grammatikalisch korrigieren und flüssiger machen aber struktur soll beibehalten werden

Hier ist eine grammatikalisch korrigierte und flüssigere Version deiner Passage, bei gleichbleibender Struktur:

---

In most studies, the dataset was used in its entirety for training, modeling, validation, and evaluation for specific tasks, as shown in Table 3. Only in three exceptions was the dataset used solely for subtasks (e.g., for evaluation) or for component models. For example, in the study by \textcite{kusmakar2020machine}, the dataset was applied only to evaluate the developed model rather than for the full modeling process. In these studies, external datasets performed most of the work. All results regarding these additional datasets are provided in the next section.

---

Wenn du willst, kann ich noch eine leicht kompaktere Version formulieren, die den Lesefluss noch etwas glatter macht. Willst du, dass ich das mache?

In most studies, the dataset was fully utilized for the tasks it was applied to (training/modeling, validation and evaluation), which can be seen in table 3. In only three exceptions, the dataset was used only for subtasks (e.g. only evaluation) or component models. For example, in case of the study of \textcite{kusmakar2020machine}, the dataset was only applied to evaluate the developed model rather than the full modeling process. In these studies, external datasets have done most of the work. All results about the additional datasets are provided in the next section. kannst du die sätze grammatikalisch korrigieren und flüssiger machen aber struktur soll beibehalten werden

Hier ist eine grammatikalisch korrigierte und flüssigere Version deiner Passage, bei Beibehaltung der Struktur:

---

In most studies, the dataset was fully utilized for the tasks it was applied to (training, modeling, validation, and evaluation), as shown in Table 3. Only in three exceptions was the dataset used solely for subtasks (e.g., evaluation) or for component models. For example, in the study by \textcite{kusmakar2020machine}, the dataset was applied only to evaluate the developed model rather than for the full modeling process. In these studies, external datasets carried out most of the work. All results concerning these additional datasets are provided in the next section.

---

Wenn du willst, kann ich noch eine leicht kompaktere Version formulieren, die den Lesefluss noch etwas glatter macht.